Site is a structure that appears to be constructed of rough, natural stone. There is a damp/musty smell to this site, but it is not unpleasant. There may be a body of salt water nearby as there was a smell of salt water in the air. There seems to be a very high vertical wall at this site. There is also a feeling that this site is very old and does not serve the purpose, at present, that it was designed for. There is a feeling of aloneness and ruin. There is also a feeling of royalty--- king, queen and crown.

This site reminds me of an old medieval walled city, a castle/fortress feeling. There was a feeling that this structure served as protection from something
